Icebox Owners Are Reminded of Law

Statute to Protect Young Goes Into Effect July 1 in State

After July 1, anyone who abandons an icebox or refrigerator without first removing the door or locking device is liable to a $25 fine, Sheriff Cluett Schantz warned today. A second offense may carry a fine as high as $100.

"The important thing is not the amount of the fine," the sheriff said, "but the saving of the lives of our children."

He called attention to a safety education data sheet published by the National Safety Council, in which it was stated that during the six year period from 1948 to 1953, 79 children died because they crawled into a discarded icebox or refrigerator, closed the door and were unable to get out.

Average Age Five
Average age of the children was five years. The death toll included 59 boys and 20 girls. Multiple death accidents are common, and in one case in 1953 five children from a single family were the victims.

The National Safety Council estimates iceboxes, freezers, refrigerators and other such airtight cabinets are being discarded at the rate of from two to three million a year.

Amends Penal Law
The state's new "attractive nuisance" law which goes into effect July 1 amends Section 1919 of the Penal Law and provides:

"Any person, firm or corporation having discarded any icebox, refrigerator, chest, closet, furniture or other container having a compartment of a capacity of one and one-half cubic feet or more and having a door or lid which locks or fastens automatically when closed, and is incapable of (Continued on Page 8, Col. 4)

Uptown Business Group Will Hold Banquet on May 20
The annual banquet of the Kingston Uptown Business Men's Association will be held at the Crystal Room in the Governor Clinton Hotel Thursday, May 20, at 7 p. m.

At that time business men and other residents of the city will have an opportunity to learn more about the arterial approach highway to Kingston as well as information on off street parking, a subject which is of great importance to all communities. The speaker will be Henry Ten Hagen, deputy chief engineer in the New York State Department of Public Works, who has had a lot to do with the arterial route program.

The committee in charge of the banquet, Adrian Kaplan, chairman; Leonard Seales and Jay Melton, feel they have been fortunate in securing Ten Hagen as speaker to discuss this important part of Kingston's problem with the coming of the New York State Thruway.

Was Author of Book Designed to Aid Public With Problems

JACOB KAY LASSER
New York, May 11 (AP)—Jacob Kay Lasser, 57 author of "Your Income Tax" and other books aimed at helping the public with its financial problems, died today in his apartment in the Hotel Beverly.

The tax expert and accountant wrote under the name of J. K. Lasser. He had been a member of the firm of J. K. Lasser & Co., with offices on Broadway, since 1923.

Lasser was born in Newark, N. J., and lived in South Orange, N. J., before becoming a New York resident. He studied at New York University and, in 1920, received a bachelor of science degree from Pennsylvania State College.

"Your Income Tax" first appeared in 1939 and was published in subsequent editions through 1951 and millions of copies were sold. With business writer Sylvia F. Porter, he wrote "How to Live Within Your Income." Among his other books were "How to Run a Small Business" and "How Tax Laws Make Giving To Charity Easy."

He is survived by his widow, a daughter, Barbara Ann Gray of New Rochelle, and a son, Donald Judd Lasser, of Norwich, Conn., both graduates of Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson.

Was Known in Kingston
Mr. Lasser was well-known in Kingston, for in 1948 with Richard O. Gruver, city editor of the Freeman, he organized here a school for small business sessions of which were held at Kingston High School eight weeks under the title, Bard School for Small Business. Mr. Lasser and Gruver were then members of the board of trustees of Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson.

Local Men Assisted
Assisting locally in the Bard School for Small Business was a committee of prominent Kingston men, including Harry du Bois Frey, general manager of The Freeman; Louis R. Netter, managing editor of The Freeman; W. Dale Swartzmiller, New York State Department of Commerce; and the Kingston Chamber of Commerce. A series was given the following year in Poughkeepsie.

Mr. Lasser was an indefatigable worker and drove himself mercilessly. He had been under treatment for some time.

Dulles Faces Sharp Quiz

French Are Against Red Proposals

Spokesman, However, Says France Has No Plan to Break Off Talks

Saigon, Indochina, May 11 (AP)—Rebel Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap broadcast over the Vietnam radio today his agreement to a meeting with French army representatives on the airfield at Dien Bien Phu to arrange for evacuation of the wounded from that fallen fortress.

Airlift Expected
Geneva, May 11 (AP)—A French spokesman said today France was willing to discuss the Communist plan for an Indochina armistice along with its own plan, but declared strong opposition to major provisions of the Communist proposal.

The spokesman made it clear France had no intention at present of breaking off the Indochina talks in Geneva despite the apparent east-west deadlock.

He explained France's position at a specially called news conference as the French national assembly prepared to debate the government's policy on Indochina.

Concerned at Headlines
He obviously was concerned over headlines which appeared in some Paris newspapers, on the eve of the debate, indicating the Geneva negotiations were regarded by the French as hopeless.

Some observers thought the new French reaction to the Communist terms represented a softening of their position, but it was clear the main provisions of the Vietnam plan were far from acceptable to France.

"After a careful study of the plan," the spokesman said, "our first impressions are still valid."

Once arrangements with Giap are made, the big problem will be landing facilities for the French transports.

Dien Bien Phu's two airstrips were churned to rubble by rebel mortars and artillery. Before the planes can land there, the strips will have to be repaired.

Might Start Soon
It appeared possible helicopters might start bringing out the most gravely wounded shortly. They can land almost anywhere, under the cover of the condition of the field.

The Vietnam radio said last night most of the injured men were being treated by their own doctors, who also are captives. More than 20 French doctors were in Dien Bien Phu when it fell.

The broadcast made no mention of Genevieve De Galarde Teraube, French Air Force nurse who was trapped in the fortress after rebel fire destroyed the helicopter which took her there for a visit last March.

The Vietnam radio announced yesterday that Brig. Gen. Christian de Castries, commander of the Dien Bien Phu garrison, was (Continued on Page 9, Col. 3)

Secretary to Give Story of Effort to Organize Front

Washington, May 11 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today the United States wants a south-east Asian alliance which would pledge member nations to fight if openly challenged by Communist aggression.

While Dulles said he hopes such an alliance will cover all of Indochina, he asserted firmly that the loss of some or all of that country would not necessarily bring the loss of all southeast Asia.

Might Go Like Dominoes
The secretary noted that President Eisenhower once advanced the theory that southeast Asia might go down like a row of dominoes if Indochina falls. Dulles went on to say that in conversations with friendly nations the United States is trying to create a situation in which this will not happen.

The secretary of state set forth his position in a news conference in advance of a secret report this afternoon to the House Foreign Affairs Committee on his efforts to line up a 10-nation "united front" in southeast Asia.

Sharp Questions Ahead
Washington, May 11 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles arranged to give a secret report today to the House Foreign Affairs Committee on his effort to line up allies for a 10-nation "united front" in Southeast Asia.

Sharp questioning on free world reverses in Indochina appeared certain.

In a move to speed creation of such an anti-Communist coalition, Dulles met with ambassadors from Australia, New Zealand, Thailand and the Philippines yesterday to sound out their government's attitudes. The secretary was reported somewhat encouraged over replies.

Dulles capped a busy day yesterday by meeting for 55 minutes with President Eisenhower, Secretary of Defense Wilson and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

Dulles, accompanied by three top aides, said afterward it "would be a pretty good guess" that Indochina policy was the main subject of conversation. Eisenhower had met with Wilson and Radford separately earlier in the day.

Would Be Months
Informed officials reported that despite some progress in discussing Dulles' plan, first publicly broached last March 29, it likely would be several months before any anti-Communist coalition could be set up in Southeast Asia.

Most governments involved, led by Britain, prefer to wait until after the current Geneva conference which is to discuss a possible armistice to end the 7-year-old war against Communist-led rebels in Indochina.

After meeting with Dulles yesterday, Philippine Ambassador Carlos Romulo said that on instructions from President Ramon Magasaysay he has requested that the Philippine-United States mutual defense treaty be implemented.

This action automatically calls for consultations between the two governments within the framework of the treaty.

Wives' Revolt Brings Arrests

Monticello, May 11 (AP)—The bearded men of this community witnessed a wives' revolt yesterday.

More than two dozen women marched down the main street, clutching their children by the hand and carrying signs that read:

"Daddy's beard scratches," "shave it off," and "no more food, no more beds, no more board."

Two of the women were arrested for disturbing the peace and later released in $25 each for hearings next week by a bearded justice of the peace, Joseph Wassner.

Fingering their whiskers on the sidelines were some of the 526 "brothers of the brush" who are raising beards for the celebration of Monticello's 150th anniversary this fall.

French Rush Plans To Get Wounded At Dien Bien Phu

Navarre Instructed to Get in Touch With Red Leader on Mercy Airlift

Saigon, Indochina, May 11 (AP)—The French rushed preparations today to airlift their wounded from the fallen fortress of Dien Bien Phu.

A French Army spokesman said Gen. Henri Navarre, commander of French Union forces in Indochina, had been instructed by the Paris government to contact the Vietnamese commander, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, and arrange for the mercy lift as soon as possible.

The Communists agreed at the Geneva Conference yesterday that the French could fly out 1,300 seriously wounded Union troops the Reds said they had captured when they seized the northwest Indochina Bastion Friday after 36 days of repeated attacks.

It could not be learned immediately whether Navarre had been able yet to contact Giap.

Would Use Radio
It was believed possible the French commander would use Radio Hiondelle (swallow) voice of French forces in the Far East—to make contact with Giap.

Radio Hiondelle carried Navarre's earlier appeals for brief halts in the firing to permit evacuation of French Union wounded after the attack began March 13. Giap turned a deaf ear to those appeals. His troops fired on hospital-marked planes and helicopters trying to fly out the wounded.

He added, however: "We consider the Vietnam proposals as a basis for discussion together with the French proposals. We have not rejected the Vietnam proposals."

Opposition Unchanged
A spokesman for the U. S. delegation, informed of the new French statements, said the United States opposition to the (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Summer Hotel Burns
Cairo, May 11 (AP)—Fire early today destroyed the O'Connell, a Catskill Mountain summer hotel that had not opened for the season. Mr. and Mrs. James E. O'Connell, the owners, estimated the loss at $50,000. The cause of the fire was not determined. The three-story, frame building was unoccupied. The owners, who live next door, discovered the fire.

Tornado Injures 2 in New England

Some Showers Still Fall in Parts of Area for 10th Day

Boston, May 11 (AP)—Cloudy weather and some showers in parts of New England today followed in the wake of yesterday's bad weather mixture which included a minor tornado, rain, hail, snow and electrical storms.

Rain fell in parts of New England today for the 10th straight day but the weather bureau forecast some sunshine before the day is over for the southern part of the six-state area.

For northern New England, the weather bureau said, "there seems little likelihood of clearing during the daylight hours with showers continuing most of the day."

Fair, Warm Forecast
Fair and warm weather is forecast for tomorrow in New England.

A local tornado flattened three buildings and caused injuries to two persons in Ellington, Conn. One of the buildings was a cape cod type residence which was lifted across a roadway and dropped in a dismantled condition.

A few hours after that tornado struck, the weather bureau at Boston issued a tornado warning for central and southeastern Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

The warning was recalled later, but not before hundreds of residents of the area jammed switchboards at newspapers, radio stations, police departments and the weather bureau in search of more detailed information.

The warning was particularly frightening in Worcester and other communities in central Massachusetts which were hard hit by a severe twister last June 9.

From Kingston, Britain to Kingston, N. Y., Is Proposed by Navy Crew

This city is to be the destination of an historic attempt to cross the Atlantic Ocean in a power-driven lifeboat scheduled to set out from England on May 22, Mayor Frederick H. Stang revealed today.

The mayor said he received a letter yesterday from the Lord Mayor of Kingston-upon-Thames, England, informing him that the craft, described as the largest of its kind in the world is expected to arrive here between June 17 and 19.

Saved 48 Lives
The boat, said the letter, has been launched 63 times and is credited with saving 48 lives, and will be manned on the trip by all former Royal Navy personnel with C. Harcourt-Smith who has a record of distinguished service in the Royal Navy from 1916 to 1938 and again during World War 2.

The lifeboat was formerly named Princess Mary, but has been renamed The Arles. The letter indicated that if the craft is successful in its trip from England (Continued on Page 8, Col. 6)

La Crosse Tests Would Not Be Lark to Guilty Person

La Crosse, Wis., May 11 (AP)—Today you are a high school boy in La Crosse, the western Wisconsin river city where 15-year-old Evelyn Hartley vanished from a baby sitting job more than six months ago.

You are called from your classroom to another room where there is a chair and a mysterious looking machine. It is a Stooling Polygraph. The device is attached to your arm, to a band around your chest.

A man named A. M. Josephson asks you your name; you tell him. He asks where you live; you tell him. He asks what grade you're in; you tell him. He asks, "Do you know what happened to Evelyn Hartley?" You say no. Then you are disconnected from the polygraph, which is a standard lie detector, and go back to your classroom. You meet another boy on his way in and you grin.

It's a break in the school-day routine—a lark.

"But," says Dist. Atty. John Besshard, "it wouldn't be a lark for the young man who couldn't truthfully say no to the big question."

Not that the La Crosse county prosecutor really expects to have this mass quiz program turn up the ductor of the pretty young baby-sitter who was snatched from the home of a family friend while her small charge slept unharmed in another room.

It turns up leads, though. There have been a dozen already checked out as fruitless, but still leads—and this is only the fourth day of the long project. Twenty (Continued on Page 9, Col. 3)

McCarthy Would Be Last Heard

Stevens Says Hearings Should Continue in Public—Final Vote Is Postponed

Washington, May 11 (AP)—Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) today offered a revised plan aimed at cutting short the McCarthy-Army hearings, but it ran into immediate opposition from the army and from Democratic senators. A vote was delayed until this afternoon.

From the witness chair, Secretary of the Army Stevens said the army believes the hearings should continue in public and that "all the facts" should be put on the table.

Stevens said he thought the committee and the public should get a chance to see the witnesses on the stand, just as he has been subjected to 13 days of public questioning.

"All witnesses necessary should come before the committee in public hearings," he said.

Would Suspend Hearings
Dirksen's proposal would suspend the public hearings after Sen. McCarthy testified, and they possibly would not be resumed.

Chairman Mundt (R-S.D.) postponed a vote on the Dirksen proposal until the afternoon session, starting at 1:30 p. m., EST, to give the investigating senators and the principals more time to consider it.

These were the main differences from an earlier Dirksen proposal: 1. Once the public hearings were suspended, there would be closed hearings for any rebuttal witnesses the principals to the dispute insisted should be heard. Transcripts of the closed door testimony would be made public.

2. With suspension of the public hearings, Sen. McCarthy would be freed to resume his own hearings on Communists in the government but with the restriction that he could not look into military installations or personnel.

By present rules, McCarthy is restrained from conducting his own investigations pending the conclusion of the inquiry into his row with army officials.

In Public Interest
Dirksen said he was offering his plan because he felt strongly it would be "in the public interest" in this time of tension.

He said he sincerely hoped all parties could agree.

Home Owners Cautioned To Take Look at Gas Prices

Albany, May 11 (AP)—The Public Service Commission today cautioned home owners to look at costs before they leap into heating their houses with natural gas.

The commission instructed four utility companies to notify prospective gas customers that pipeline firms were asking the Federal government for rate increases that "may result in a substantial increase in the cost of gas."

The PSC emphasized that it was "neither encouraging nor discouraging" the use of any particular type of fuel.

But it pointed out that regulation by the commission of utilities supplying retail service provided "no guarantee of price stability" in the cost of gas heating. The PSC said its duty was to see that the public "obtains safe and adequate service at reasonable cost." It added, however, that it also was charged with affording utilities "a fair return on invested capital."

THEY PLAYED IT SAFE —

Industrial accidents annually take a heavy toll in death, injuries and lost production. These story-telling photos were taken at Armco Steel Corp. plants at Middletown, Ohio, and Ashland, Ky., but they could be duplicated in almost any plant. The stories: 1. Pot tender in galvanizing department. Molten zinc exploded, sending shower of hot metal against his face mask. No injury. 2. High-pressure hammer operator. Hose connector failed and hose thrashed wildly. Metal end (arrow) struck him on head. Hard hat was smashed. No injury. 3. He was working with air-hammer operator. Piece of chipped slag flew up, striking his safety goggles. No injury. 4. Crane follower carelessly signaled crane operator to lower 30,000-pound load of steel sheets, forgetting to take left foot off top of previous load. He wore hard-toed safety shoes. No injury.

He was "man in the iron mask"—luckily.

He's glad he was an "under-cover" man.

He's goggle-eyed at his escape from being blinded.

Financial and Commercial

New York, May 11 (AP)—The stock market subsided today after starting out well.

The decline was quiet and without selling pressure to speed it on down. The higher start soon gave way to a retreat that continued on into the early afternoon.

The fall went to around a point at the outside. At the same time there were many plus signs in the list, some extending up to between 1 and 2 points.

Trading was at a rate below yesterday's low 1,800,000 shares.

Most major divisions of the market were mixed with a lower tendency, rather than flatly lower. This included the rails, steels, motors, oils, aircrafts, chemicals, and radio-televisions.

Going down were Union Pacific, Standard Oil (N. J.), Kennecott Copper, du Pont, General Electric, Republic Steel, Boeing, and Radio Corp.

Higher were Youngstown Sheet & Tube, American Motors, Montgomery Ward, National Distillers, and American Telephone.

The Gannett Company had owned approximately 51 per cent of the stock and the heirs of Mrs. Warner 49 per cent. Mrs. Warner was the widow of Frederick H. Keefe of Newburgh prior to her marriage to William H. Warner of Forest Hills, who survives her. Mrs. Warner died in 1948.

French Rush Plans

Communist terms were unchanged. It was summed up this way: The Communist plan, if accepted in full, would represent unconditional surrender to the Communists.

Sources close to the Vietnamese delegation said the Communists terms were unacceptable to Viet Nam.

These reactions came as the Indo-Chinese talks were in recess. One western source said they might not be resumed before Friday. The Korean phase of the conference, meanwhile, was resumed with a meeting of the 19 participating countries.

French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak were reported ready to speak.

The main points of western opposition to the Communist proposals on Indochina peace were the provisions for Communist-style elections without international supervision, recognition of the Communist-backed regimes of Indochina and lack of military guarantees to back up the armistice.

Dirksen's Plan

sen's new proposal provides for committee counsel Ray H. Jenkins to interview possible witnesses other than McCarthy and Stevens, or direct rebuttal witnesses called by the principals, and provide a summary of their statements by June 10. The subcommittee then would decide which, if any, of them should be called for public testimony.

Dirksen's new plan ran immediately into a protest from Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.), a subcommittee member, that principals in the case other than McCarthy and Stevens—who might be questioned in closed hearings—would be limited to rebuttals answering testimony of Stevens or McCarthy. Jackson said each of the principals, in their original statements, has filed charges and countercharges of an affirmative nature, and should testify and be questioned about these charges.

Plans Are Made

Pittsburgh, May 11 (AP)—Pittsburgh commuters made long range plans for make-shift transportation as the strike of 2,700 employees against the city's transit system entered its third day with no end in sight. An estimated 200,000 persons, left without trolley and bus service, thumbed rides, used taxis or walked to reached their jobs yesterday—first work day since the strike began Sunday. Most persons reached their destinations with little difficulty. Only one of 220 jurors on duty in Criminal Court was late. Factories and offices appeared to operate at normal strength.

Driver Is Injured, Other Arrested For Passing Light

One person was injured and a driver was arrested on a charge of passing a red light due to a mishap at Washington and Linderman avenues last night.

A police report at 7:43 p. m. said the truck of George W. Schneider, 37, of 90 Dunneman avenue was headed east on Linderman avenue and the suburban of William Oehler, 28, of RD 4, Box 156 Kingston, was headed south on Washington avenue.

Both vehicles were damaged and were towed from the scene. Oehler was arrested by Schneider on the charge that he passed a red light. He was fined $5 when he appeared today before City Judge Raymond J. Mino.

The report said Schneider was treated by a doctor for injuries and a Central Hudson pole was broken in the mishap and was moved at its base. A fire alarm box was also reported loose on the pole. Firemen from Wiltwyck station answered a fire call after the mishap, but no fire was reported. The police report indicated that the suburban had caught fire.

Unemployment Is Lower in April, State Office Shows

Unemployment insurance benefit payments declined in Ulster county in April for the second successive month, according to the monthly report of the local office of the State Labor Department's Division of Placement and Unemployment Insurance.

Payments in Kingston last month averaged $43 per week, compared to a weekly average of $42 in March and $43 in February. Payments made from the Ellenville branch office declined from an average of $94 in March to $29 in April.

The totals include partial payments to part time workers in needle trades. In April, these partial payments totaled 150.

Report on Percentages
Claimants from manufacturing industries account for 46 per cent of the total. Distribution of payments by industry of last employment was: apparel and related, 20 per cent; metal products, 13 per cent; building and construction, 21 per cent; transportation, 10 per cent; resort 10 per cent; retail and wholesale trade, 8 per cent. The balance distributed among all other employment with no significant number from any one.

The local office placed 288 persons in new jobs during April. The total includes 146 women and 54 veterans. Of the total placements, 122 were in manufacturing and the balance in non-manufacturing industries.

Anticipate Many Resort Jobs
Personnel at the Kingston office and its Ellenville branch are preparing for an anticipated large amount of resort job openings throughout the county. Last year from May to September the Kingston office placed 461 persons and the Ellenville branch an additional 588 in resort jobs.

Applications are now being accepted from local residents, and other help can be recruited through the division's New York City Resort Unit. Anthony C. Hart, local employment security manager, explained that if the local office cannot supply workers in response to an employment request, the order is transmitted to New York. Applicants meeting the job specifications are selected there and referred to the local employer either direct or through the local office.

The Ellenville branch was reopened on a full-time basis for job placement on May 3.

AMERICAN MENU This Royal Dish Is Made With Whole Beef Tenderloin

THESE TENDER BEEF tenderloins are topped with mushrooms to make a favorite dish at any party.

By GAYNOR MADDON

NEA Food and Markets Editor

A whole beef tenderloin, roasted to a crusty brown outside and pink to rare in the center, is a perfect roast for a special company dinner. Mrs. Bert Dudman, of South Chicago, expert in meat cookery, gave us these instructions.

Select a medium to low grade whole or half beef tenderloin for roasting. This cut is fork tender, even in the lower grades. Before roasting, strip off the surface fat and shape the meat by tucking the narrow end of the roast under to make a uniform shape. Add salad oil or bacon strips.

Roast 45 to 50 minutes for a half tenderloin weighing 2 to 3 pounds, and from 45 to 60 minutes for a whole tenderloin of 4 to 6 pounds. Serve sizzling hot, carved in uniform, thick slices.

Beef Tenderloin Royale
(Yield: 8 to 12 slices, 1-inch thick)

One beef tenderloin (low grade) 4 to 6 pounds, 1/4 cup salad oil or bacon drippings.

Remove surface fat and connective tissue. Place on rack in a roasting pan. Tuck narrow end of tenderloin under to make the roast an even thickness. Brush with oil. Insert a roast meat thermometer into the center of the thickest part. Roast in hot oven (450 degrees F.) 45 to 60 minutes or to an internal temperature of 140 degrees F. Serve hot with fried onion rings or browned mushrooms.

Bacon Royale Tenderloin: Before roasting, cut gashes to center of tenderloin. Partially pan fry 3 strips of bacon, cut into 1-inch strips. Drain on absorbent paper. Insert a piece of bacon into each gash. Brush tenderloin with bacon drippings. Roast.

Garlic Royale Tenderloin: Before roasting, cut 12 gashes to center of tenderloin. Cut 3 cloves of garlic into quarters. Insert a toothpick into each gash. Half a clove of garlic may be removed before serving.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Jelly, cold, creamed, beef tenderloin royale, browned mushrooms, fresh asparagus, almond butter, mixed vegetable salad, toasted Vienna bread, butter or margarine, meringue shells, ice cream, fresh strawberry sauce, coffee, tea, milk.

Goldstein Claims Public Mulcted By Window Firms

New York, May 11 (P)—State Atty. Gen. Nathaniel L. Goldstein said today that investigation of the storm window industry in this area has revealed that a number of companies have been mulcting the public through unscrupulous "bait" advertising.

Goldstein said in a statement that he is concluding his investigation of nine of the largest concerns in the field, each of which spends more than $125,000 a year for advertising. He did not identify the companies.

"I have been appalled," he said, "by the behavior of a small but powerful segment of the storm window industry whose sole interest in personal pecuniary gain far outweighed their business ethics."

Goldstein's announcement said he is "seeking to put the offending firms out of the business of tricking unwary home owners."

Will Be Called On

Goldstein said offending firms will be called on to sign agreements to cease the practices complained of. He said the alternative to the consents would be actions in the New York State Supreme Court to dissolve the firms.

He also has directed his monopolies bureau to determine whether there has been unlawful price fixing or other monopolistic practices in the industry.

Goldstein said the storm window industry did a business of more than 140 million dollars last year—with large sales outside New York state as well as in the metropolitan area and other parts of the state.

He said many windows were sold at prices three and four times the advertised price.

Olympic Games Assured

Athens, May 11 (P)—The 1956 Olympic games were assured today for Melbourne. The last obstacle to staging the games in Australia was removed when the International Olympic Committee voted by a two-thirds majority to hold the equestrian events at a site to be selected later. There had been considerable agitation that the games be taken from Melbourne because of the Australian law which prohibits the importation of horses until after a six-month quarantine. The law, which the Australians refuse to change, virtually eliminates the possibility of holding the full Olympic equestrian schedule.

OLD PLAYERS NEVER DIE

Ballplayers do many things after leaving the game. In the old days many opened saloons. Now the sport attracts many with other interests. The salaries are high enough to permit saving money, and going into business. Some dabble in politics, getting elected mayor or sheriff. Walter Johnson, the great Washington star, ran for Congress unsuccessfully from his Maryland district. John K. Tener, a 19th century pitcher, was elected governor of Pennsylvania. Ted Lewis of the Boston Nationals became president of New Hampshire State College.

The most surprising achievement, however, for a former professional athlete is that of Charles Devens, a Harvard University pitcher who in the '30's was for three seasons with the New York Yankees. He was generally held to have great possibilities, but he quit to go into business. Now he has made the news by getting elected president of Incorporated Investors.

It is only fair to say that he started out with more financial advantages than most of his team mates. His family were wealthy. Yet, whatever the cause, he is probably the only former big leaguer to get an important position in big business.

None of us can be expected to be responsible for all things that happen, but it is strictly up to us how we react to them.

EAT AND STAY THIN

Painless reducing is many persons' nearest idea of heaven. Many suggestions along this line are commercially prompted and cannot be relied upon. Now comes authoritative advice which will cheer the many who regard eating as their favorite sport but do not want to gain weight.

At a health conference Dr. Frederick J. Stare of the Harvard University School of Public Health, a nutrition specialist, advised those wishing to lose weight or at least not to gain, to eat a large breakfast, including bacon, eggs and cereal. This builds up the blood sugar so that hunger does not become strong later. Eating between meals is a good idea, provided that the snack merely anticipates something like dessert which would have been eaten later.

This sounds like a painless way to reduce. The opinions of other specialists should be obtained. The method, however, would charm the disciples of Napoleon's Foreign Minister, the worldly wise Talleyrand. He said on one occasion about eating, "Show me another pleasure which renews itself three times daily, and lasts an hour at a time."

There is nothing like a soft word from one's spouse to put you in your place—right alongside on the davenport.

SPIRITUAL CONCERN

A major Hollywood studio has paid a cumulative price of $2,000,000 for the film rights to the late Fulton Oursler's story of the life of Christ, "The Greatest Story Ever Told." This is reported to be the highest price ever paid for the motion picture rights to a story.

The report is significant. Public interest in books and movies with spiritual backgrounds has grown by leaps and bounds in recent years. The Bible, of course, has always led the best-seller lists. But books like "The Robe," "The Big Fisherman," and "A Man Called Peter" have held high places on the lists of best-selling fiction. At the same time non-fiction books like those of Bishop Fulton J. Sheen and the Rev. Norman Vincent Peale have enjoyed remarkable success.

Books and motion pictures which emphasize the spiritual rather than the material do not necessarily herald a new age of morality and spiritual attainment. But they do show that in these troubled times men evidently feel a greater need for that which deals with the spirit.

OUR BRAVE YOUNGSTERS

When they get around to passing out awards again in the medical field, we hope the authorities can find it in their hearts to give a group—or perhaps we should say a

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

ON SCHOOLS

President William F. Russell of Teachers College at Columbia University has written a handbook for puzzled parents and tired taxpayers. It is entitled "How to Judge a School."

Parents are, of course, puzzled by their children these days, as they undoubtedly were when I was a child and had parents. But mine were happy that there was any school to go to, which was very different from the country whence they came, schools there being the special privilege of special people.

It was enough that the youngsters could go to school, that they learned English and to count and that the report cards were good, especially about deportment. Some children were already bums and did not get good deportment. And some parents were always going to school to tell the principal why their children did not show up.

With such simple problems, President Russell does not deal. The schools have become so complicated that the parents ought to go back to learn how to understand their children. The three "R's" are old foggy stuff. Who needs to know how to write; for writing you use a typewriter. Who needs to know how to add; for adding you use an adding machine. As for reading, some do and some don't. It is not so much a matter of a quarrel between progressive education and traditional education as that the child may come out of our schools prepared not only for college but for life.

I like President Russell's book, although as a parent I am more orthodox than this educator, because he poses the problem that parents face. The other day, my 13-year-old daughter told me that she had to write a composition on Marxism. Not a little surprised at the immensity of the topic at her age, I handed her "The Communist Manifesto" with an introduction by Harold Laski. Her product pleased me no end because she described accurately the basic Marxist principles and their application in Russia as Marxism-Leninism.

Where she got the second part, I do not know. But of this I am sure, her statement of the case was superior to that of many Senators I have heard. If the type of education she received can produce the ability to focus on the facts and to clear away tons of verbiage and prejudice, it is not a bad job at all. I tried to recall what I was told to do at that age and if my memory serves me, Mr. Jenkins, I was given Edgar Allan Poe's "The Raven" to memorize and to recite. I must say that all my life I have earned my living by the use of English and I am sure that, considering that I did not speak English at home when I was a child, the language could not have become a tool had I not memorized poetry and prose, the Bible and the Declaration of Independence.

They now say that such memorization is a waste of effort, but this I doubt. There is much philosophy in Russell's handbook which explains, in a measure, what he has been trying to do at Teachers College, which has had such an influence on American education. He makes a point about liberty, without which our society has no meaning.

He says: "The Fathers did not give a precise charter to us, their successors. They knew what they did not want precisely what they did want was not so clear. Thus religious freedom seems to stand somewhere between religious direction from the central authority and atheism and godlessness. Freedom of speech stands somewhere between silence and license. It may be a civil right, but one should have a civil tongue. Noninterference in business should stand somewhere between the chaos of Russia and the complete government control of Soviet Russia. Our government was consciously set up at a midway point somewhere between the rule of the benevolent tyrant (the finest form of government according to Aristotle) and rule of the mob. They fixed it carefully, so that while it might never be 100 per cent efficient under a good man, it could never be 100 per cent bad under a bad man."

I think most of us can go along with that. Children who can be made to realize that liberty cannot be as complete as tyranny have learned a great lesson. (Copyright, 1954, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

MENTAL ILLNESS

I met a clergyman recently and asked about the health of a mutual acquaintance whom he visited regularly. He said, "Bill is feeling low in spirit. His wife is practically dying, being kept alive in an oxygen tent, and he is wavering in his faith to which he has clung for years. He has no anchor." We all need an anchor in order to live hopefully in this life.

In a News Release of the National Association of Mental Health of which organization Fleet Admiral William F. Halsey is national chairman of the Mental Health Campaign, the admiral made this statement:

"Mental illness is without question the most severe threat to the health and welfare of the American people. Its victims—direct and indirect—are counted in the millions. It strikes the young and the old, the rich and the poor, the executive and factory worker alike. The expenditure of public funds for the treatment of the mentally ill and the support of their dependents runs well over a billion dollars yearly. It is impossible to estimate the financial losses resulting from crime, delinquency, retarded production and accidents caused by mental illness. There is no measure for the misery endured by the mentally sick and their relatives."

To Admiral Halsey's address it would be well to add some information from the Public Relations Department of the National Association for Mental Health, Inc., to give some insight into the needs of this worthy nonprofit organization aside from what our governments are granting.

"Much of the mental distress which people feel today results from the fact that they are no longer sure of what they believe in and they have lost their own sense of worth as human beings." Quoting Dr. Rollo May, psychologist, National Association for Mental Health, it is stated that "Much of the anxiety of modern people is occasioned because the values they believed in no longer have a clear idea of their security and they no longer have a clear idea of who they are or what kind of a world they live in."

What is the aim of this and other mental organizations? It is greatly expanding research in mental health, to devise new, more effective, speedier and less expensive methods of treatment and to develop better methods of prevention, expanded training of psychiatric personnel, development of preventive services in communities throughout the country and in hospitals.

We must never forget that mental illness is our country's greatest and No. 1 problem.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — Foreign diplomats in Washington have been complaining that they find it difficult to determine just what is America's policy on Indochina.

In little more than the past month there have been seven conflicting or contradictory statements on Indochina policy.

The original position, going back to the Truman administration days, was that the French and Viet Namese would be given all aid necessary, short of the use of American troops at the front. That still holds. The Eisenhower administration is spending $400 million on aid to Indochina this year and has asked for more than twice that amount for next year.

But on March 23, before the Overseas Press Club in New York, Secretary Dulles declared that, "... the imposition on southeast Asia of the political system of Communist Russia and its Communist ally ... should not be met by United States action, but should be met by United States action."

Secretary Dulles amplified this on his mid-April trip to London and Paris. Communiques issued after conferences with Foreign Ministers Anthony Eden and Georges Bidault declared America, Britain and France were examining "the possibility of establishing within the framework of the United Nations Charter, a collective defense to assume the peace, security and freedom of this area."

But the secretary declared on his return that he thought it "unlikely" the United States would have to send troops to Indochina. This seemed to be changed by

Vice President Richard M. Nixon's answer to a question at the American Society of Newspaper Editors meeting in Washington. If the French pulled out of Indochina, the vice president said, he hoped the United States would not have to send troops. But if this government could not avoid it, the administration would have to face up to the situation and dispatch forces.

The showdown on this came just before the Geneva conference opened, when France asked America and Britain for direct military intervention in Indochina.

British Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill said his government would give no military assistance in Indochina, pending the outcome of the Geneva conference. This made it impossible for the United States to push the formation of a southeast Asia Treaty Organization—SEATO—and the policy had to be shifted again.

President Eisenhower has declared consistently that there would be no involvement of America in war unless it was declared by Congress through constitutional processes.

When Britain and then the United States turned down the French request for immediate military assistance, it left France's Foreign Minister Bidault no alternative but to seek a negotiated peace with Indochina at Geneva.

The final link in the American foreign policy chain on Indochina was forged by President Eisenhower himself, supporting this French policy. In his U. S. Chamber of Commerce speech, he put the emphasis on his hope for a peaceful settlement of the Indochina war at Geneva.

In a recent speech at Des Moines, Vice President Nixon criticized the Truman administration foreign policy as "characterized" by weakness, inconsistency, compromise of principle at the conference table and abandonment of our friends.

The Eisenhower administration policy, he said, was based on "strength, firmness, consistency and non-surrender of principle at the conference table."

The vice president also criticized former Secretary of State Dean Acheson for saying in January, 1950, that "Korea and Defense were outside the defense zone of the United States."

One pointed question now being asked in Washington is how this differs from present statements, in Congress and everywhere else, informing the Communists openly that the United States will not go to war in Indochina as it also, is outside the U. S. defense perimeter.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, May 10—Joe Ryan, the president of the International Longshoremen's Association, is on trial before Judge Francis L. Valente in General Sessions on a charge of stealing a sizeable amount of money from the union treasury in his 20 years as president.

I would not think of discussing the evidence unfolding before a strongly masculine jury who look as though they would understand the practical ways of life in a rough trade in a tough part of New York. But I am impelled to note the forlorn condition of this old giant of the American Federation of Labor, deserted and rattled on by sanctimonious fakers of the corrupt regime who denied one of their own when he was caught in trouble.

Whoever said I flattered Joe Ryan or invented apologies for the conduct of a typical AF of L international union has a perverted notion of wisdom. I had known for years much of the same information that was only confirmed on the record by the inquiry of the State Crime Commission which finally moved the grand jury to indict him. But so did Dewey and Hogan as district attorneys; so did Mayors La Guardia, O'Dwyer and Impellitteri, and so did the late meaty fakes, Senator Bob Wagner, "author" of the blueprint for labor fascism which bore his dishonored name and Senator H. H. Lehman, now as governor and as senator.

Both after all the scandal so dear to the moral palate of a cynical generation, one discouraged old bull of the woods sits in a hard straight chair at a table strewn with documents and photostats, leaning his weight in a sense that is almost physical on a small, faithful, smiling friend who knows the waterfront and the hypocrisy of unions and "labor" politicians so well that none of these fakers can look him in the eye. Louis Waldman, defending Joe, in a speech at the Kings' County

Grand Jurors' Association a few months ago dared the head politicians of New York to make an issue of "crime on the waterfront." None of them dared.

The AF of L was as guilty as Ryan's in association, and George Meany, who became president on the death of Bill Green, and the political parasites of both parties are only a trace less involved. Any determined mayor, governor or district attorney could have cleaned up any time in the last quarter-century. They all either knew or had no excuse not to know that pilfering, extortion and other forms of looting were robbing the Port of Commerce and vitality and the public of hundreds of millions. But Ryan's men voted, in spite of hell, to stick to their old crooked union under Ryan.

There may have been some element of intimidation or selfish interest in this vote, but it may have been honest manhood. In any case it was stronger than the sentiment for the new "independent" union set up by Meany and his frowzy crew after they had revoked Joe's charter. And after Ryan's old ILA had won in an election as fair as such votes ever are under conditions laid down by the bad law which they themselves, invoked, drew and the rest of the losers raised a howl of righteousness and had it all set aside.

Meany and the jailbird Joe Fay were partners of Joe Ryan for many years. Ryan is one of the few union bosses of any power in the east who didn't call on Fay in Sing Sing. Not that he was socially or morally priggish. Joe just happened not to have any business to submit to Fay. But Meany did and Meany, the president of the AF of L, had the pompous effrontery to issue a "press release" at the first of the year promising President Eisenhower four full support in his efforts to achieve world peace and to strengthen our national economy.

Easy Peace at Geneva Conference, Catering to Communists, Could Kill Democracy

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Geneva, May 11—They are trying here the unprecedented job of endeavoring to negotiate a military armistice at a political conference. It means all the jockeying back and forth of a Panmunjom palaver plus all the double-talk of official propaganda that goes on at a political conference of 19 delegations.

Of all this comes a cease-fire in Indo-China satisfactory to the allies, it will be a miracle. If there emerges a sell-out to the Communists, this will not surprise the "left wing" elements throughout the world which have been clamoring for it, but there could be some grave consequences from such a surrender.

As Secretary Dulles said in his main speech here, "Peace is always easy to achieve—by surrender." The United States has already announced it would disassociate itself from such a so-called "settlement."

The United States has given the whole subject in further discussions on the basis of the proposal made last week by Foreign Minister Bidault. This doesn't mean that America approves it or will guarantee it in the end but merely that it is a desirable starting point. There is always the possibility that the Communists will reject any proposals that are offered, and hence America cannot be in the position now of refusing to see any plans advanced in the parleys with which it might in some respects be in disagreement.

The general principles of an Indo-China settlement have been stated only in part thus far. The question of whether the United States will join in guaranteeing by military force an armistice line depends on whether, as a practical matter, the proposed line does or does not constitute a means by which the Communists will obtain control of Indo-China. There are so many "ifs" involved that a long-drawn-out negotiation seems in prospect.

The key to this conference is the "peace at any price" attitude which exists in so many countries, including the United States.

It is wrong to generalize that none of the free nations today has the will to fight, for a given real crisis—such as a threatened invasion—the situation would change overnight. But to mobilize strength to ward off such an invasion, to bring some sort of united will into being in advance of a crisis seems to be well nigh impossible. The reason is that the facts are glossed over by the governments concerned and the truth is concealed for fear of giving offense to allies and complicating further a situation that it is often vitally assumed might be healed by continuing conversation.

What gets into the newspapers, therefore, are inspired versions guardedly phrased to put the best possible light on the friction that exists.

But the Communists know today the weaknesses of the western alliance and its limitations. Despite all the talk about a southeast Asia pact, Britain hesitates. The official reason given out is that London wants to wait until after the Geneva conference, but the truth is that the soft Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden are afraid to offend their own "peace at any price" elements and to become estranged from India, which has taken a positive position against a southeast Asia pact.

The British have tactfully allowed the impression nevertheless to be conveyed that they still are, as they said on April 13, actively engaged "in an examination of the possibility of establishing a collective defense within the framework of the charter of the United Nations to seek the peace, the security and freedom of southeast Asia and the western Pacific." But there has been no formal statement since that same evening, when, in the course of a parliamentary debate, Secretary Eden backed away from this declaration, saying it was not any commitment whatsoever. The talks of staff officers at Singapore have proceeded, to be sure, as a sort of concession to American pressure and as a piece of camouflage to give an outward appearance of unity, but in reality it may be doubted whether a southeast Asia pact is sincerely desired by the British government and whether they will go along with it wholeheartedly despite the pledge of unity which they gave Mr. Dulles when he was in London on April 12.

What this means to the negotiations at Geneva for a settlement of the Indo-China war is that, at a moment when the United States made a constructive suggestion for a plan that would encourage the whole of southeast Asia to resist further aggression by the Communists, the British government decided to pour cold water on the idea in a debate which was forced upon it by the opposition of the party in Parliament. This is not the way to impress the Communists. It is the way to cause them to miscalculate the resoluteness of the free world. Such a miscalculation, once made by Hitler, can be made by Malenkov and in the end, as a result of miscalculation, would come a world war. (Reproduction Rights Reserved) on charges of racketeering in the New York longshoremen's union. Meany replied, "it is up to the police and to the district attorney to arrest and convict law-breakers. The AF of L has no such powers."

But later, he pulled Joe's charter and tried to hand most of the members over to the millionaire Dave Beck of the teamsters, saying nothing at all about the disclosures of enormous corruption in a whole chain of councils of Beck's unions, covering 26 mid-continent states.

Congressman Clare Hoffman, of Michigan, who had shown up on brigandage and piracy by the teamsters in insurance, juke-box graft and a variety of other criminal stratagems, went back to Washington from Detroit dejected and licked. He said he had been stopped dead by some mysterious political force. Bill McKenna, his counsel and chief investigator, was even more positive in characterizing political force. But Beck rides the crest of a sea of dishonest publicity which drenches much of our journalism with a strange disquieting guilt. Beck is the model of the new "labor statesman" and Meany, who was lifted from the status of union lobbyist to the high of a political figure, is courted for his political favor and his wisdom on great matters.

Joe Ryan fought Harry Bridges and the Communists back from the eastern seaboard and the Gulf coast from the very first threat.

He kept the traitors off the docks when the 20-year regime of Roosevelt-Truman-La Guardia and Lehman would have called them nothing worse than agrarian reformers. He lives in a 5-room flat on the lower West Side and he knows his people and walks without fear of bodyguards. His wife is ageing and failing in health and he has come up busted after all, whatever he may have helped himself to in the careless, cafeteria manner of the typical boss under in dealings with his treasury.

Little Mr. Waldman will do his best for Joe, but it would be easier if the law let him prove what other men did who now praise themselves for their great service to society in slitting old friends' throats.

Joe looked up, startled as he saw me at the press box. When I smiled, he gave me the snit, shaking hands with himself in the old gesture. At adjournment I asked, "where is Meany? Where is Dan Tobin? Dave Beck?" "I don't know," Joe said. "They must be busy. I am glad you came around."

How do you like the new Monthly Investment Plan?

[ONE-MINUTE INTERVIEWS]

PAUL BASSIN, salesman, Elmhurst, N.Y.

"Fine! I started with the M.I.P. when I heard companies listed on the Exchange pay such good dividends. One stock I am buying pays 4% and one pays 7%. Both companies show a profit this year, and if they do, I do."

WILLIAM J. HUOT, vice president, St. Paul, Minn.

"I'm buying $2,000 worth of stock at the rate of $40 a month. I'd never own that much stock without this new Plan that lets you buy a little at a time. When you can do that, there's no excuse for not owning stock, is there?"

ANN HUDDLESTON, schoolteacher, Long Beach, Cal.

"I think it's just wonderful! I thought I'd have trouble deciding what stock to buy, but the broker I called on answered all my questions. I have stock in a company that hasn't missed a dividend since 1880!"

This pay-as-you-go Investment Plan is clearly explained in questions and answers in our new booklet.

The booklet tells how you can own any of 1,200 stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Take your choice of successful companies and watch the number of shares you own grow. Dividends can be mailed to you or reinvested to build your holdings. Before you decide to "own your own business" through buying stocks, be sure to get the facts—talk over the risks and rewards with a member of the Exchange. His advice is free.

Showers Take Energy

Omaha (AP)—It takes four times as much energy to take a shower as a bath says Dr. Howard A. Rusk, chairman of the department of physical medicine and rehabilitation at New York University. That's important to two million Americans crippled by heart disease, Dr. Rusk told a University of Nebraska medical college audience. Taking a bath instead of a shower is one way cardiac victims can conserve their overtaxed hearts. Dr. Rusk also confirmed something many a bed-ridden patient has suspected: It requires twice as much energy to use a bed pan as it does to walk to a bathroom.

Fourth Degree Has Wilbur Breakfast

Kingston Assembly, Fourth Degree of the Knights of Columbus, received Holy Communion in a body at the Holy Name Church in Wilbur on Sunday morning. The large gathering of Sir Knights was greeted by Father Ambrose Murphy, pastor of the church, who stressed the need of Catholic Action in solving the problems of the day.

Following the Mass a breakfast was served at the K. of C. Home. A short program of speaking was given, with Harold O'Connor acting as master of ceremonies. Past Master Patrick T. Murphy gave an interesting talk on the objectives and purposes of the Fourth Degree. The guest speaker was the Rev. John J. Drew, M.M., who is on leave from the mission field in China. He drew an interesting and dramatic picture of the labors of the missionaries and their difficulties with the Communistic officials in that region. His first hand report gave an insight into the workings of the ruling power now in charge of so much of China.

Announcement was made of a reception to be given new members recently received into the Assembly. The dinner meeting will be held Monday, May 24.

The United Nations Committee of the Kingston Lions Club have been planning a clothing drive for Korea for some time. The city-wide drive for the clothing will take place Wednesday night, May 19.

Law said today: "I cannot over-emphasize the need for residents of our community to get behind this campaign to clothe the Korean civilians, who are in extreme want for the bare essentials needed to survive. We are trying to make it as easy as possible and instead of having our people go to a local depot, we will bring the depot to the people. That is why the campaign is being conducted on a door-to-door basis."

work of the pact to chart steps for countering a possible threat to the security of either country. In this case, the Philippines has chosen to view the Red successes in Indochina as such a possible threat. Dulles already has conferred with Australian and New Zealand diplomats under terms of the Australia-New Zealand-United States mutual defense pact.

Agrees to Request

Today an authoritative source said the United States has agreed to the Philippine request to put the treaty machinery into motion. The source, declining to be identified by name, said Defense Secretary Wilson, who leaves for the Far East tonight, is due in Manila May 24 for talks with Magasaysay on the military phases of the pact.

Before Wilson's arrival consultations will be held between a Filipino military committee and the joint U. S. Military advisory group in the island capital.

Dulles came in for some criticism and some indirect praise on Capitol Hill yesterday. Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) told the Senate the Geneva conference foredoomed to failure because Dulles went there without "the full confidence of the members of his own party in the Senate of the United States." Kefauver said the secretary had "his hands tied behind his back . . . without the power to negotiate freely."

"The most consistent and effective support of the foreign policy of the United States, where it has been wise, has come from the Democrats," Kefauver declared. "Yet we have been little consulted. Our party and its leaders have been reviled."

But Sen. Morse (Ind.-Ore.) said that following Dulles' lead would be "following the administration into war in Asia." He said Dulles has made "one mistake after another" in his Asian policy.

Rep. Hays (D-Ohio) said U. S. Military leaders apparently are not alarmed over a threat to Hanoi because the Monsoon rains are due to hit soon. Hays said the same thing was said before the fortress of Dien Bien Phu fell, and he continued:

"I wonder if the Monsoon is the 'massive retaliation' we've heard so much about."

outs in New Hampshire and Maine.

New Hampshire Gov. Hugh Gregg estimated damage to roads and highways in his state at three million dollars. That state's highway commissioner, Frank D. Merrill, said it will cost about $250,000 to clear roads for normal traffic movement.

The only serious damage in Maine was reported at Kennebunk, where the flood gates of Mousan River dam broke as the river rose three feet above normal. Lightning struck the First Congregational Church in Northampton, Mass., as well as that community's jail.

Lightning also struck the chimney of the Westfield (Mass.) Bicycle Manufacturing Plant, causing several thousand dollars damage.

Hailstones fell for about 15 minutes in the Springfield, Mass., area during a violent thunder storm.

Three inches of snow fell on the Mohawk Trail in North Adams, Mass.

Will Carry Greetings

A letter with greetings from the mayor of the British community to Mayor Stang will be carried on the trip and presented by its commanding officer when the craft arrives in Kingston next month.

The community from which it will sail is known as The Royal Borough of Kingston-Upon-the-Thames.

Mayor Stang, in a reply, wished the sailors "good luck and God-speed" on their interesting and hazardous journey, and he said he would appreciate it if there is any possible way to do so, to forward him advance notice of when they might arrive so that the city might be prepared for a reception. He also asked for information as to how long the craft and its crew planned to remain here.

Reports Boxer Poisoned

Officer Louis Sapp, Jr., of 159 Washington avenue, reported to police headquarters last night that his boxer dog had been poisoned. The dog had been released from where it was tied at the side of his home, taken away from the house and apparently given poison, the report said. An investigation was reported still under way today.

Layoff Increases
In Cement Strike

Layoff of local construction workers is on the increase, George E. Yerry, Jr., business agent for the Metal Trades Council, stated today when asked in regard to how the strike at the Hudson valley cement plants was affecting local workmen. Yerry said there were twice as many men out of work in the building trades locally, as there were last winter. The reason for the layoff is due in part to the shortage of cement for the Thruway and other construction projects and also, he said it was reported, to a shortage of steel. A large number of local carpenters have been laid off and Yerry said the layoff is increasing.

Thruway Work Halted

The shortage of cement is due to the strike of some 1,000 Hudson valley cement workers. This shortage of cement has affected work on the Thruway and has caused carpenters engaged in building forms to be laid off. Four Thruway projects have been halted, the Thruway Authority reported yesterday. One of the jobs is the 11.68 miles of thruway between the Normanskill Creek, just south of Albany, and the Greene county line. Another is the 4.5 miles of by-pass south of Albany.

The strike of the cement workers began May 3 and other workmen have become involved through respect for the picket line and because of several other strikes in the Albany area.

ment for a heart condition for years.

School Ran Eight Weeks

The small business series held here ran from March 4 to April 21, 1948, and drew 3,700 persons. On the program were nationally-known figures in business and finance, including Senator Arthur H. Wicks, of this city, then New York State Senate Finance Chairman; John N. Van Deventer, director of information for the Committee for Economic Development; Burt W. Roper, chief, Business Practices Division, Office of Small Business, U. S. Department of Commerce; Nelson A. Miller, chief, Marketing Division, Office of Domestic Commerce, U. S. Department of Commerce; Stanley A. Knisely, executive director, Associated Business Papers; Dr. Wilford White, chief, Management Division, Office of Small Business, U. S. Department of Commerce; and several others. Mr. Lasser gave the first lecture on taxation.

Became Model for Others

The school became a model for many others of similar nature throughout the nation, was publicized in outstanding periodicals of commerce, and had the endorsement of the U. S. Department of Commerce and the New York State Department of Commerce. A summarizing pamphlet was prepared by the U. S. Department of Commerce.

Two Vehicles Damaged, No Injuries

No one was injured when a Krug Baking Company truck and a passenger automobile collided in Hurley about 11 a. m. Monday, state police reported. Troopers said the bakery truck was driven by Andrew P. Nolan of Wappingers Falls, and the automobile by Thomas George Dragotta of 148 Millers Lane, a rural mail carrier. Nolan was driving east on Route 209 and Dragotta was traveling south on the same highway and the two vehicles "met at the intersection" where Route 209 makes a right-angle curve, the troopers said. Both vehicles were reported damaged, and the passenger automobile had to be towed away. (Freeman photo)

Conference Is Held

New York, May 11 (AP)—A federal mediator conferred with officials of the New York Central System today in a move to avert the possibility of a strike by the Brotherhood of Railroad Train-men, Ross Foran, the mediator, was expected to confer later with both management and union officials. The dispute concerns a union claim that the system replaced four crews on New York-Buffalo passenger trains with younger men in violation of contract seniority provisions. The union had threatened to strike all Central lines east of Buffalo May 3, but postponed the walkout pending mediation efforts.

my name is Margaret Mullishy and I am 9 years old.
I had a dog named Rover he was 1 year old. He was very kind and was my best friend. Now I am very sad and I have cried for 3 days because your truck hit my dog Rover last Wednesday. It wasn't your fault but would you please help me find another puppy.

Thank you
Margaret Mullishy

Why Margaret named her new puppy "Bella"

Charlie Triscritti, telephone repairman, felt mighty bad when we got the letter above.

He knew he couldn't have avoided hitting Margaret's "best friend." And Margaret's father, who saw the unwise Rover dash under Charlie's slow-moving truck, agreed. But even before the letter arrived, Charlie felt he should do something about it—accident or not.

His telephone teammates had thought so, too. They wanted to chip in to buy Margaret a new puppy. And that's why, in no time at all, she was the proud owner of a bouncy new friend.

Margaret was so proud and happy that she named her new pet after the man who invented the telephone. Of course, since the dog was a lady, the name had to be "Bella."

And we're proud, too, because this story typifies the spirit of service and friendliness of telephone people—off the job as well as on.

to thirty boys can be processed a day, and there are more than two thousand in the city's three high schools. Josephson says it's the largest such test in the history of crime detection.

Josephson is the polygraph expert fresh from four years of service as an expert with the army's Criminal Investigation Division in the Far East. He was hired last month to head the new La Crosse city-county crime laboratory.

"The tests have renewed the interest of the public," he added. "We may finally get a tip, a fragment of information, that someone didn't think was important back when the case was hot. One of those will lead us to the answer."

The mass polygraph quiz is only the latest turn in a long course of intense police work since last Oct. 24, when Dr. Richard Hartley's daughter was taken from the home of Prof. Viggo Rassmussen a fellow faculty member at La Crosse State College.

The only real clues have been several separate finds of blood-stained clothing belonging to the girl and to the man who took her, and a pair of large tennis shoes matching tracks left by the abductor.

French forces strengthened their defenses in the vital, rice-rich Red river delta below Hanoi against a rebel assault that might come before the monsoon rains hit their peak late in June.

Informed French military sources said it was unlikely, however, the Vietminh could shift the bulk of their shock troops from Dien Bien Phu to the delta perimeter before another month.

French fighters and bombers ranged up and down northwest Indochina, pounding rebel troops and supply convoys on the roads below.

In Hanoi, the French Air Force announced it had opened an offensive against the rebels in the delta and had "destroyed" three villages used by the Vietminh as attack bases.

Today's order authorized four upstate gas companies to supply service for a total of 6,925 additional space-heating customers. Each firm was directed to notify new clients in writing that the pipeline firms were seeking increases from the FPC.

Mayor Names Thursday Hadassah Eye Bank Day

Mayor Frederick H. Stang gives the first contribution for Hadassah Eye Bank Day to Miss Rhoda Mollot, chairman, while Mrs. Benjamin Fishkin, committee worker, and Mrs. George Starkman, president of Hadassah, look on. (Freeman photo)

Funds Collected In Drive Will Aid Trachoma Victims

Mayor Frederick H. Stang today proclaimed Thursday, Hadassah Eye Bank Day and granted permission to the women of Hadassah to collect funds on business corners of the city to Save an eye for Israel.

May 8 was the sixth birthday of the State of Israel and in commemoration of the milestone, Independence Week is to be observed here by the Save-an-eye Drive.

The women will be at their stations between 10 a. m. and 6 p. m., Thursday and will carry small, blue dime banks. The funds will be used to save children and adults afflicted with Trachoma, an eye disease causing eventual blindness. Each small bank holds $5. This is enough to treat an eye afflicted with this disease.

Trachoma is a common malady in the overcrowded population centers of the Middle East. It had been wiped out in Israel until the recent influx of peoples from the Arab lands, where it is widespread. Local contributions will go toward preventing further spread of the disease, and help provide permanent medical care in time to prevent permanent blindness.

Miss Rhoda Mollot is chairman of the local Hadassah drive, and her committee are Mrs. Benjamin Fishkin, Mrs. Jack Smollen, and Mrs. George B. Starkman, president of Hadassah in Kingston.

Hudson More Scenic Than Rhine, Little Gardens Club Hears

Mrs. John Saxe told the Little Gardens Club that many world travelers have been free to admit that in varied and pictorial charm the Hudson river excels the world-famed Rhine river in Germany. At the meeting of the group Friday at the Nieuw Dorp in Hurley, the speaker mentioned that the wilderness of the western U. S. is "terrible" to many foreign travelers on our shores, who are also critical of the lack of gentleness of tone of careful culture in landscaping.

This element of the "unkempt and ragged" in our scenery is not a fault of the Hudson river, Mrs. Saxe quoted George William Curtis, saying, "Comparing famous European rivers... the Danube has in part glimpses of such grandeur, the Elbe something of the delicately penciled effects, but no European river is so lordly in its beauty, nor flows in such state to the sea as our Hudson river."

The title of Mrs. Saxe's paper was Scenes along the Hudson.

Mrs. Claude Twombly and Mrs. Arthur Quimby were hostesses with Mrs. Frederick Snyder presiding at the tea table.

Christian Women Have Duty to Others, Says Mrs. Arthur B. Resch

It is the duty and privilege of the Christian woman to think about others rather than concentrating on self," said Mrs. Arthur B. Resch, executive secretary of the Department of Woman's Work of the Mission Boards of the Reformed Churches in America, at May Fellowship Day Friday, sponsored by Kingston Council of Church Women.

"One of the phases of our stewardship from God is the use that is made of the material things entrusted to us," the speaker continued, "and working denominationally through the Council of Church Women, we should be willing to help others less fortunate than ourselves." Mrs. Resch also stressed that Christian women have a real responsibility to train their children to face life as well as a real responsibility to aid and improve their communities.

At a short business meeting preceding the talk by Mrs. Resch, the proposed trip of the Kingston Council of Church Women to the UN was discussed. It is planned to have two bus loads making this tour in October. All interested women may contact Mrs. William Cain for more information.

The afternoon concluded with a tea and social hour with ladies of the Trinity Lutheran Church as hostesses.

Dr. Elbert MacFadden, pediatrician, speaking to the Ulster County Cerebral Palsy Mothers Club, outlined the various types of palsy which are caused by injury to any one of the three sections of the brain.

Dr. MacFadden, at the meeting Monday evening, said that this injury to the brain can take place at any time, before birth, at birth or after birth. Most cerebral palsied children have normal intelligence and can benefit greatly by the treatment that is offered at the Cerebral Palsy Center, the speaker said, closing with high praise for the work of the center.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hospitality committee.

Haymes Arguments Due

Washington, May 11 (AP)—The Board of Immigration Appeals listens today to arguments why crooner Dick Haymes should not be deported to his native Argentina. Advance word was that neither Haymes nor his movie actress wife, Rita Hayworth, would attend the hearing. A spokesman for the five-member board said a decision in the case can be expected by the end of May. Haymes could appeal an adverse ruling to the Federal Courts.

Meat Packers Keep Hundreds Busy
In City's Plants

By JOHN A. CRAWFORD, JR.
Kingston is the center of a century-old meat packing industry which today employs several hundred workers, a check by The Freeman discloses.

The industry includes Forst Packing Co., Inc., of 113 Abbot street, Siller Beef Co. of 42 Ann street and Kingston Beef Corp. of 10 Meadow street.

Many changes have taken place in the industry during that period and growth has been steady.

Forst Founders Company
Rising five floors from railroad siding along Rondout creek is one of Kingston's great industries—Forst Packing Co., Inc., founded in 1861 by the late Jacob Forst whose initiative laid the foundations for a firm whose reputation during the past 93 years has taken on national proportions.

The founder's sons, who took over the business on the death of Jacob Forst in 1918, have evinced the same acumen possessed in such high degree by their parent and the company has flourished and grown.

Max Forst became president of the company in 1918 with Bernard Forst as vice-president and Henry Forst as secretary-treasurer. Charles Forst, a grandson of the founder, is sales manager of the firm and Leon Forst, who is Charles' father, a New York attorney, represents the company in legal matters.

Was Called 'Abattoir'
The plant, which has between 150 and 200 employees, was originally called the Jacob Forst Abattoir with "city-dressed beef" listed as the principal product.

Today Forst products, of which there are more than 300, include almost every type and cut of meat and meat product on the market. One of its more recent and largest items is canned cat and dog food under the trade name Friend.

As many as 100 head of cattle can be handled in a day by the slaughterhouse. Approximately 2,000 hogs can be processed in a week.

When Herbert Brandt, who is still employed by the company, went to work in the plant almost 50 years ago, the working personnel consisted of two butchers, two helpers, a bookkeeper and Max, Bernard and Henry Forst.

Modern Plant Built
The modern meat packing plant was built in 1931. More than half of all employees at the plant have been with the company for at least 10 years.

Forst canned products are made by a straight line production method with the latest in vacuum-packing equipment and all post-war innovations in machinery and methods are employed to advantage.

Emphasis is given to sanitation. Government inspectors have been assigned there on continuous duty with Dr. D. E. Gibbs of 98 Clinton avenue as veterinarian in charge, assisted by Frank E. Dailey of Port Ewen and Gosta Hagstrom of 38 Third avenue. The inspectors supervise all manufacturing operations, handle ante-mortem and post-mortem inspection on the slaughtering floor, check sanitary conditions at the plant, ingredients used in sausages, etc., supervise the canning of dog and cat food as representatives of the Animal Foods Inspection Service, inspect poultry operations, etc.

Long-Time Employees
Some of the other long-time employees are Ed Norton, John Woods, Gus Wiedemann, Gene DeDea, John Measter, Zach Hermande, Clarence Myer, Arthur Kuehne, Phil Dreiser, Jim Brandow, Martin Kastner, Stephen Witkowski, Cortland Hicks, Frank Stanley and Sidney Weal.

The employees are represented by Local 331 of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, of which Benjamin Chase is president.

Siller Employs 30
The Siller Meat Co. of 42 Ann street, which employs about 30 men and has a fleet of 12 trucks, has expanded to such an extent that it recently purchased the former L & L Packing Company on Route 209 just outside the city limits. The building, which is of concrete block construction, will be renovated, new equipment installed, etc., and will be ready for occupancy in about three months, according to Louis and Herbert Siller, brothers, who operate the business as a partnership.

The property, which was left vacant by the L & L Co. of Buffalo about a year ago, has about 10 acres of land, three large coolers and a large slaughtering area. A stone house which stands in front of the building will be razed and the property landscaped. Part of the building is one-story and part two-story.

The plant, which slaughters a couple of hundred cattle a week, was founded in 1900 by Jacob Siller, father of the present owners. He came to this country from Poland.

Louis Siller became associated with the firm shortly before the death of his father. After the elder Siller's death Louis became associated with Louis Amdur and the business was known as Siller and Amdur, the partnership continuing until 1933 when Amdur died. Herbert Siller, Louis' younger brother, then became associated with the business which became known as the Siller Beef Co.

Expansion Steady
Since that time the expansion has been steady until the plant reached the point "where we have no more room."

The company was originally a slaughterhouse, but the founder also dealt in live dairy cattle. The plant slaughters beef and veal and distributes a complete line of provisions, smoked meats, poultry, etc. There is also a department which supplies retail Kosher markets. The plant's trucks distribute as far north as Albany, west through the Sullivan county area, south as far as Yonkers and on both sides of the river.

Live cattle is shipped in from Chicago markets. Hotel bar butter of New York is also handled. About five or 10 per cent of the company's business is in the Kingston area.

According to Louis Siller, the company expects to add more employees when it enters its new quarters.

He said the company was also planning to enter the pre-packaged frozen meat field which was gaining in popularity with the housewife.

The new plant will unload cattle into pens beside the tracks of the O & W railroad a short distance from the slaughterhouse.

Founded in 1915
The Kingston Beef Corp., with eight employees and a fleet of five trucks, was founded in 1915 by Isaac Farber, father of George Farber, present head of the company. The elder Farber retired about 10 years ago. Max Mones is secretary-treasurer.

Since 1915 one new cooler has been built and the company's territory extends from Ulster county as far south as Westchester county and as far north as Albany county. Distribution has also been extended into Columbia county.

They slaughter every day, Monday through Friday. Farber points out—cows, steers, calves and bulls, all under the supervision of Dr. Harold C. Clark of the Ulster County Department of Health. The company carries a full line of smoked meats and provisions. Its pork products of which there are about 45 items, are shipped from the John Morrell Company of Ottumwa, Iowa.

Some cattle are obtained from livestock markets in this area—Pine Bush and Walden, for example. The cattle are auctioned at the markets, a method "good for the farmer but bad for the slaughterer." Some cattle in this area is purchased by the pound, the farmer delivering them directly to the plant where they are weighed and slaughtered. Meat may be purchased by the pound today, according to Farber, in places like Chicago, East St. Louis, Kansas City, etc.

Meat Prices Down
During the past year, Farber says, the price of beef and veal has come down about 15 cents per pound, lamb five cents per pound and butter 10 cents per pound. Lard is up about four cents per pound.

Slaughtering methods have changed considerably in recent years, Farber points out. For instance, the steer was formerly split by hand with a meat cleaver. Today it's done with an electric saw which "saves about 25 minutes per animal."

There is also something new on the market which makes it possible to skin an animal without a knife, "like shaving," Armours & Co. is trying it out.

It takes an experienced skinner to remove the hide or the skin is damaged and brings half the price at market. Cured hides bring about 11 cents a pound today whereas five years ago they brought 20 cents a pound. Farber described conditions in the industry today as "deplorable" due to the decline in the demand for leather—approximately 56 per cent in the past five years.

Fat Is 'Worthless'
Fat from the animals is also "worthless" because today's soap is being made largely from detergents. Fats have declined from 15 cents a pound during World War 2 to eight or 10 cents a pound five years ago and as little as one-half a cent a pound four months ago. The price is now two cents a pound.

This decline in the use of meat by-products is "demoralizing the meat industry."

The consumption of leather during the past six years, for example, has declined 46 per cent because many companies are now using synthetic materials instead of leather. Farber points out that Armour & Co. hasn't paid a dividend in four years. Swift & Co. and Hormel are the only plants showing a profit and paying dividends, he explains.

Meat is plentiful, however, with an "abundance on the hoof." Beef prices for the rest of the summer should be about the same although pork may be higher, he thinks.

Why We Say--

BACHELOR

Originally, a bachelor was a soldier who couldn't afford to lead a group into battle. The word meant a person of inferior rank. For this latter reason, the name was applied to unmarried people because it was thought that they were inferior socially.

Auditorium Filled For Minstrel Show

Woodstock, May 10—It was virtually standing room only at the Woodstock School Thursday and Friday evenings when students of the school presented their first minstrel show under the direction of Miss Mary Harris, music teacher, and Joseph Gandino, art teacher. Dazzling, tuneful and fun, the specialty numbers were performed amidst colorful, giant flowers and faces, and the costumes glittered with shining spangles, gaudy striped trousers and billowing skirts, all in the best minstrel tradition.

Enviably Aplomb

From the tiny Mighty Midgets—who scored an encore later in the evening—to the tall, black-faced end men, the cast tapped their rhythms, soloed on accordion, harmonica and voice, and tossed off their jokes with an aplomb that might be thoroughly envied by their elders. In short, the youngsters did a superlative job.

Following the spirited opening chorus—Take Off Your Worry and Put On a Smile—there was a spirited solo and dance ensemble, to After You've Gone, featuring Konrad King, Pixie Meeklem, Shiela Russell, Jean Wilson, Carol Ann Hefty and Sandra Locke. Ally Waterous' accordion solo was a biting pause before the presentation by Interlocutor Paul Greenberg of the Mighty Midgets, green flower sprites who were a sensation—Carol Cousins, Emmy Gibson, Julie Holmizer, Linda Cousins and Elaine Cousins. Woodstock's youngest talent culled from kindergarten and first grade.

Margie followed, a rhythm novelty number aptly presented by

Fire's 'Unsung Hero' Is Discovered Here

Woodstock, May 10—A week following the fire which destroyed the roof of the cottage owned by Mrs. L. B. Jones and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Barry Neher the unsung heroes of the afternoon fire have emerged.

Information has been received that between the arrival of the Woodstock and West Hurley Fire Companies and the discovery of the blaze by Ernest Muller, whose property adjoins that of Mrs. Jones, Karl Schroeder, building contractor and about eight of his men, hastily and efficiently removed the furniture and the Neher possessions from the house. Also rescued by one of the men was Mrs. Neher's six-weeks old cocker puppy from the kitchen of the house. Karl Schroeder and his crew were at work at the time completing the building of the group of motel apartments on Ernest Muller's property. According to the source of information concerning Schroeder, the group had quietly gone back to their own jobs when the firemen took over. When it became apparent that it might rain that night, Schroeder also obtained a piece of a balloon from Tapoos Country Club and safely covered the gaping hole in the roof of the house, saving it from further damage.

City Baseball League Re-Organizes; Names Davi President

Five Teams Set For 1954 Season; Murphy New VP

Loop Still Looking For New Secretary

Re-organization of the City Baseball League was assured last night with the election of Fred Davi to the presidency.

The veteran Glasco sports figure has been identified with area baseball for nearly 30 years. He succeeds Edwin Murphy, who agreed to serve as vice-president.

Re-organization of the twilight circuit had been delayed for several weeks while league officials searched in vain for a presidential candidate. Davi agreed to take the job, although he has other commitments with the Little League, Babe Ruth League and the semi-pro team at municipal stadium.

Murphy promised to give the new president as much assistance as his work schedule will permit. League officials think that between the two, Davi and Murphy will keep the loop moving.

Davi's election created plenty of enthusiasm at last night's session and the managers expressed confidence the league would enjoy a good season.

A meeting has been scheduled for next Monday to iron out final details and set the date for the seasonal opener.

The league is still looking for a secretary-scorkeeper to succeed John Misasi, who resigned several weeks ago.

Two new team names cropped up at the city hall meeting and it was announced that five teams are ready to go.

Charlie Havlin's Indians have changed their name to New York Panthers and the Shokan team will operate as the Olive Merchants.

George Harman, who inherited the Colonial Merchants from Pucker Davis, has announced plans to change that name to include the word Kingston.

Two old standbys have retained the status quo with respect to names—Dobler, piloted by Joe Hoffman and Jones Dairy's league champions who are managed by Daisy Schatzel. Bill Jackson will handle the Olive Merchants.

League officials invite all candidates for secretary, umpires, ground keeping to next Monday's meeting.

Change in Script

Indians Scalp Yankees
Third Straight Time

By BEN PHLEGAR

Associated Press Sports Writer
Al Lopez' writers obviously ave given the Cleveland manager
new script for the Indians
eries with New York this season.
After trying it out twice out f town with great success, the ndians played the new version or the home folks for the first ime last night and left 'em limp.
In 1954 script casts the Indians
n the role of the hero who cuts
he "complacent" Yankees down
o size.

In the three showings so far he "actors" have shown great ersatility. The first time in New York, the Indians left the thrills or the curtain call, scoring five uns in the 10th inning for a 9-4 triumph. The next day, still in New York, the Indians showed the Saturday matinee crowd their muscles and came off with a 10-2 victory.

Last night's version jammed most of the action into the first act, but the suspense continued to the final curtain as the Indians won 8-7.

Cleveland spotted the Yankees three runs, then roared back with seven before the New Yorkers could get anybody out.

With seven runs home, Jim Hegan on third, nobody out and Whitey Ford and Bob Kuzava shelled from the mound, in came Yankee rookie Bob Grim.

Hegan got home on a sacrifice fly, but Grim blanked the Indians after that.

Rookie Checks Yanks

Meanwhile the Yankees cut the deficit to 8-7 after three innings.
Then Don Mossi checked them until the Yankees put two on in the eighth and Mike Garcia replaced Mossi.

Garcia weathered the eighth and got through the ninth by getting Eddie Robinson on a pop up and Gil McDougald on a long fly with two men on base.

Dave Philley was the big hitting star of the first inning as he popped a grand slam home run over the left field fence.

Only one other major league game was played yesterday. The Baltimore Orioles rallied for four ninth-inning runs and shaded the Philadelphia Athletics 7-6. The run total was the highest for the Orioles this season.

A pair of walks, singles by Bob Young and Gil Coan, a double by Dick Kryhoski and a sacrifice fly by Sam Mele made up the rally.
Bob Trice, last of three Athletics' pitchers, was charged with his second defeat in two days.

April Has Increase
In Bridge Traffic

This was a gain of 10.48 per cent or 52,314 vehicles.

The Mid-Hudson bridge clocked 306,884 as against 282,122 in April, 1953, a gain of 24,762 or 8.78 per cent. The Bear Mountain bridge total was 125,109 last month and 106,633 in 1953, a gain of 17,333 per cent or 18,476 vehicles.

The Rip Van Winkle bridge total was 119,392 over 110,316 a gain of 9,076 or 8.23 per cent.

The bridges have been showing a consistent month-by-month gain. The Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry carried 5,717 vehicles last month and 5,324 in April, 1953, a gain of 193. It carried 1,680 pedestrians this year as against last year's 1,646, a gain of 34.

As Much As 15% of The Power
Your Engine Could Develop
Is Being Held Captive

TCP, blended into Shell Premium Gasoline, releases this power—by neutralizing lead and carbon deposits.

Engine deposits which are responsible for the greatest power loss in today's cars, can now be neutralized. This is accomplished by the newly discovered additive blended into Shell Premium Gasoline and sold under the trademark TCP.

How these deposits steal power

Lead and carbon deposits build up in combustion chambers and glow red-hot when you step on the accelerator to pass a car or make a hill. These "hot spots" set off the fuel charge before the piston is ready for its power stroke. This is called pre-ignition: power works against you instead of for you.

These deposits also accumulate on the tips of spark plugs and prevent the spark from doing its job. The deposits actually divert electricity from the electrodes and keep the plug from firing. This is called misfiring. It results in wasted fuel and power.

How power's unlocked

That's the way power is held captive in your car, but now this captive power can be unlocked by Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP. It is the greatest gasoline development since the discovery of tetraethyl lead, and here's how it works:

TCP additive changes the character of the deposits. Instead of glowing red-hot in combustion chambers, they are "fireproofed," become harmless. Pre-ignition is prevented, power works for you.

Moreover, the deposits can no longer divert electricity away from the electrodes. The spark goes back to work—turning fuel into power! With continued use of Shell Premium with TCP, you get up to 2½ times longer spark plug life.

A tune-up without tools
In a nutshell, TCP additive lets your engine have all the knock-suppressing benefits of modern fuel without its power wasting side effects.

In fact, Shell Premium with TCP additive restores the power deposits take away. This can be as much as 15% of the power your engine is capable of developing.

That's why you'll feel your engine's had a tune-up by the time the second tankful of Shell Premium with TCP is consumed.

Because today's gasolines are always building up deposits, the only way to keep these deposits harmless—to always get full performance from your engine—is to use Shell Premium with TCP. You'll find it now at all Shell Dealers—the only place it's available.

BIRTH OF INDEPENDENCE—Americans today probably would celebrate Independence Day a lot later than July 4th except for the scene shown being re-enacted here. Appropriately costumed, guides and craftsmen from the exhibition buildings and shops of colonial Williamsburg, Va., portray the dramatic session in the Virginia House of Burgesses on the day—May 15, 1776—that Virginia's famous Resolution for Independence was unanimously adopted. This document led directly to the drafting and adoption of the Declaration of Independence by the Continental Congress. The historic event is celebrated every year in the restored colonial city. In the picture, the man with hand upraised is impersonating Patrick Henry. In the original Speaker's chair, at rear, another "actor" impersonates Edmund Pendleton, of Caroline County, who presided.

Track Star Coming

London, May 11 (AP)—Roger Bannister, the four-minute miler, was booked tonight on a flight for New York. There was no explanation for the Bannister trip. The world record breaker was not reachable for comment. There were reports, however, that Bannister might appear on television in America. He also has received an invitation to run in California next week.

Lone Bid on Bonds

New York, May 11 (AP)—A nationwide investment banking syndicate today submitted the lone bid in the auction sale of 100 million dollars of Connecticut Expressway revenue and motor fuel tax bonds. The 250-member group headed by Lehman Bros. and First Boston Corp. named a net interest cost to the state of 2.8569 per cent for the tax-exempt obligations maturing serially 1962-91. Proceeds from the financing will begin construction of a 129-mile cross state toll road extending from the Greenwich parallel on the New York state border to the Rhode Island state line near Killingly. Subject to official award, the underwriters reoffered the 1962-94 maturities priced to yield from 1.60 to 2.90 per cent interest.
